The Courier-Journal backs up Wilson strong in the Panama tolls matter.

Helm is the only Kentucky Democratic Congressman who voted against the President.

Spalding Trafton took charge of the Henderson postoffice yesterday morning.

The Massachusetts House of Representatives killed a bill putting the ban on the tango.

John W. Logsdon, the popular railroad man, who was critically ill at Evansville, is getting better.

John C. C. Mayo is still alive but no hope of his recovery is entertained.

Collector Ben Marshall, of Frankfort has come out for Stanley for, Senator.

Linne Kozel, a German aviator, made a new altitude record Tuesday ascending 20,564 feet. The previous record was 20,295 feet.

The town of Hazard, at last accounts was living up to its name and was under water from an overflow of the Kentucky river.

Mrs. Mary Bartlett, aged 50, of Chicago, has sued a beauty doctor for damages because he left her less beautiful than she was before.

Edward Dove eloped with Etta Miller, of Paducah, and an olive branch is about the proper thing to send to the bride's angry father.

Stanley's enemies have revived the false rumor that he is about to withdraw from the senatorial race. Campaign lies never pay in the long run.

The East New York Methodist Conference, after a lengthy discussion, voted to abolish its evangelical commission and require pastors to conduct their own revivals.

Gen. Venustiano Carranza, supreme chief of the revolution, was welcomed in Juarez Sunday after a horseback trip of 500 miles at the head of his troops.

Albert Dahlstrom, leader of the "Heliga" sect at Seattle, Wash., has been given a sentence of five years in prison. He used his "religion" to induce many young women to live with him.

The missing county of Poinsett, held back until Tuesday, has been turned in with enough majority to nominate Clark over Kirby for Senator in Arkansas, by 700 votes. Kirby does not admit it.

Things must be getting desperate with Mr. Beckham. His organ, the Louisville Post, is starting a campaign of abuse against Stanley, to divert attention to Beckham's record in the Baltimore convention and elsewhere.

August Pajenk, at Chicago, who masqueraded as a woman was sent to the penitentiary and "Albert" Cashier, of Quincy, a woman, who passed as a man for 60 years, was sent to insane asylum. In Illinois it is the safest plan to be what you are.

A correspondent says Villa executed 70 men with 14 bullets, in order not to "waste ammunition." The victims, federal captives, were placed back to stomach five deep and a bullet was fired into the breast of the front man, which passed through the bodies of five men at once.

It speaks well for the integrity of county officers in Kentucky that the State Inspector in 15 counties found errors of only $1,707.31, or a little over $100 to the county covering a period of several years. Some of these clerical errors were less than $10 and only one was above $500. Where the public offices are not filled by expert book-keepers, mistakes are very easy to occur. The main thing is to have honest men in office who will not falsify records to cover up intentional irregularities. As long as the inspector does not discover enough errors to pay his own expenses in making investigations, Kentucky is getting along all right.

CHURCH HILL
GRANGE SALE

Will Be Held On Friday of Next Week--Several Cattle To Be Sold.

SALE EARLIER THAN USUAL.

A Closed Session of The Grange Will Follow The Public Sale.

The annual Grange Sale will be held at Church Hill on Friday, April 10th.

The sale is held earlier this year so that the farmers can sell their winter fed cattle before grass fed stock are put on the market.

Last year the annual Grange Sale was held in May and a former sale was held in April, corresponding to time of annual Grange Sale for this year. The Grange has not made known whether or not there will be a sale and picnic to follow the latter part of May. It is believed that as cattle are scarce in this section that most if not all will be sold at the coming sale on April 10th.

Some nice winter fed cattle have been consigned to this sale, which should bring about some active competition among the local buyers.

The sale will commence at ten o'clock and an effort will be made to finish by noon. After dinner there will be a closed session of the Grange to initiate some candidates in 1st and 2nd degrees.

The membership of Church Hill Grange is growing rapidly and now there is scarcely a person living within a radius of 5 miles who is not a member of the order. The Church Hill Grange can also claim many members that live much farther away.

DON'T FORGET
HORSE SHOW

Exhibition of Male Breeding Stock on Fair Grounds Monday.

Next Monday at 1:30 p. m. there will be a general exhibition of the breeding stock of the county at the Fair Grounds. Every one who has a stallion, jack or any other male animal that he cares to exhibit will be welcomed gratis. Interested persons can be comfortably seated in the grandstand while the stock are being exhibited. The fair grounds are being used by the courtesy of President S. L. Cowherd, of the Pennyroyal Fair Co.

LUNCHEON AND SMOKER.

Dr. Harned Entertains Hopkinsville Medical Society.

Dr. J. W. Harned entertained the Hopkinsville Medical Society with a luncheon and smoker Monday night. Mrs. Harned and Miss Ruth Jarrett presided at the table. After the luncheon a smoker was held. Miss Jarrett then entertained the physicians present with a recital, which was highly enjoyed. The President, Dr. J. A. Southall, then called on every physician present for toasts and medical post prandial oratory and medical lore were uncorked. The evening was enjoyed by all present.

Dr. Harned's guests were Drs. Bell, Gaither, Perkins, Rozzell, Sargent, Reynolds, Stephens, Donnelly, Rudd, Erkiletan and Southall.

Miss Laura Lowe and Miss Margaret Dalton will go to Nashville to hear Tetravini sing to-morrow night.

TORREON
HOLDING OUT

Gen. Carranza Gives Positive Report That City Belongs To Federals.

JUAREZ IS BADLY EXCITED

Over Unverified Report That City Had Capitulated--News Is Suppressed.

Juarez, Mexico, March 31.—Gen. Carranza stated positively at eight o'clock last night that while he had every reason to hope for an early capitulation of Torreon, the town had not yet fallen, and the position of the troops had not materially changed during the last twenty-four hours. A report of the fall of Torreon was not confirmed. No telegraphic news is transmitted.

WILL TEST
UNIT LAW

Validity of The Act as Passed By The Recent Legislature Is Questioned.

Lexington, Ky., March 30.—The validity of the 25 per cent. clause in the new county unit bill, under which local option campaigns are expected to be organized this fall in this and other counties in the state, is being seriously questioned, it is said, by lawyers who have had an opportunity to study the measure.

The weak point in the bill's legality, it is said, is in the wording of the first line of the first two sections. The bill reads:

"Be it enacted by the general assembly of the commonwealth of Kentucky: "Section 1—That Section 2554 be repealed and in lieu thereof the following be enacted as a substitute therefor."

Then follows the section as it was proposed to amend it.

Further in the bill appears Section 2 as follows:

"Section 2—That Section 2557 be repealed and in lieu thereof the following be enacted as a substitute therefor."

It will be noted that in neither the first nor second sections of the bill is there anything to indicate that 2554 or 2557 are sections of. It is, of course, apparent that the sections refer to the Kentucky Statutes, Carroll's 1909 edition, but the point which the lawyers make is that the law does not say so, and it is claimed by those opposed to the new law that this defect is if ever tested in court will prove fatal.

On the other hand, however, the "dry" element declares that the redeeming feature of the question is that the title of the bill as it passed, stated clearly that it was a bill to repeal and re-enact Sections 2554 and 2557 of the Kentucky Statutes, Carroll's 1909 edition.

TUBERCULOSIS OF THROAT

Causes The Death of Promising Young Man.

Jesse Gordon Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse A. Payne, died Tuesday night at the home of his parents, No. 106 Cleveland avenue, in his 23rd year. Tuberculosis of the throat was the cause of death. He was confined to his bed only three weeks, although he had been ill since last December. Mr. Payne was a popular young business man and had been in the employ of Mr. W. R. Bowles for about eight years. His father, mother and one sister, Mrs. L. C. Riggins, survive. The interment took place yesterday afternoon in Riverside Cemetery.

MAYOR OF
GALLATIN

In Jail Under Charge of Looting Bank Friday, March 20.

CASHIER OF THE BANK.

Sensational Sequel to The Robbery of The First National Bank.

The arrest of Will B. Brown, mayor of Gallatin and assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Gallatin, on a charge of embezzlement, and the arrest of Herbert B. Jackson, of Gallatin, an employe of the state mining department, on a charge of conspiracy and aiding and abetting Brown in embezzlement, came as a sensational climax Monday to the reported robbery of the Gallatin financial institution on the morning of Friday, March 20.

The warrant on which the arrests were made was sworn out before United States Commissioner Harry Luck at Nashville by Edward J. Brennan, special agent of the department of Justice, Monday morning.

The warrant charges Brown with embezzling more than $30,000 of the funds of the bank.

SHORTAGE REPORTED LARGE.

An official of the bank stated Monday night that the shortage at the institution is estimated at between $30,000 and $60,000.

Athenaeum.

The April meeting of the Athenaeum will be held tonight at Hotel Latham with interesting literary papers by H. W. Linton and J. W. Downer.

TO REPEAT
OPERETTA

West Side School To Give "Little Red Riding Hood" Again.

BIG SUCCESS WAS SCORED.

Second Performance Scheduled For Tomorrow Night At Opera House.

Yielding to the urgent request of many people who were unable to see the operetta, "Little Red Riding Hood," last Friday night, the teachers of West Side School have consented to again give the play on next Friday night, April 3. The large crowd who filled the house and the many who were turned from the doors at the previous performance, attest the popularity of the operetta. The children show much careful training and deserve a large audience at this second performance. The solos by the children show much sweetness and pathos, and the zest with which they enter into the roles they have been assigned, is remarkable. Little Virginia Schmidt makes an ideal Red Riding Hood, while Lester Cannon as Wolf, Johnnie Cannon as Anthony, Verla Perry as the mother, and Enos Powell as the grandmother are all successes in their lines.

Program.

PART I.

Parasol Drill—Twenty Little Girls.
Dunce Drill—Thirty Girls and Boys.
Soldiers' Chorus—Twelve U. S. Soldiers.

Town Crier—Raymond Fowler.
The Robber Wolf—Lester Cannon.
Grandmother—Enos Powell.
Mother—Verla Perry.
The High Sheriff—Oren Philbrook.
Mary Anne—Ruth Ford.
Jemeima—Lela Walker.
Peter—Vern Perry.
Patrick—Jesse Mitchell.
Bride—Louise Merritt.
Bridegroom—Birdie Witty.
A Band of Hunters.
A Group of Dancers.
Many Villagers.

WILSON WINS
BY 86 VOTES

Champ Clark Takes Only 52 Democrats With Him.

UNDERWOOD AMONG THEM

Republicans 25 And Progressives 2 Vote With The President.

Washington, April 1.—The vote in the house last night on the passage of the Sims bill to repeal the toll exemption provision in the Panama canal act was 247 "ayes" to 161 "nays" and one present. The vote:

FOR THE BILL.

Democrats.....220
Republicans.....25
Progressives.....2
Total.....247

AGAINST THE BILL.

Democrats.....52
Republicans.....92
Progressives.....17
Total.....161

The result was a victory for the administration but the opening stage of the first struggle within the party since democracy took control of the government a year ago, for tomorrow the bill goes to the senate where the fight will be renewed with all of the vigor and determination that attended in the lower house.

Fifty-two democrats followed Speaker Clark and Leader Underwood to defeat in their steadfast demonstration that the president was wrong in his decision that toll exemption for American ships is a violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty with Great Britain.

CLARK SMOOTHED PARTY BREACH.

Nothing, it seemed, could stem the tide of administrative success. Speaker Clark, for nearly twenty-two years a member of the house, made the speech of his life to forestall what he termed "unquestionable degradation" of the nation. In this he failed, but he did smooth over the party breach with kindly words for his adversaries, praise for President Wilson and an unqualified denial of any vaulting ambition on his own behalf.

In the senate the bill will be referred to the committee on inter-oceanic canals, of which Senator O'Gorman of New York, a vigorous opponent of the measure, is chairman. Senator O'Gorman said he would call a meeting of the committee at once to consider the bill. That there will be a fight can be predicted, but administration senators propose that a vote shall be taken by the committee within a reasonable time. Senator Owen is leading the fight for the president.

Life Lost Its Charm.

Miss Minnie Wilson, aged 39, residing with her brother Reuben Wilson, four miles below Hawesville, Ky., drowned herself last night. She was not missed until rising time this morning.

She has been in a despondent mood for some time. One year ago her sister who was a few years younger, committed suicide by drowning.

Dropped Dead.

Rev. J. H. Milburn, for many years one of the leading Baptist divines of Western Kentucky and Tennessee, dropped dead in the Deitzel jewelry store at Union City, Tenn. Rev. Mr. Milburn was also an ex-Confederate soldier, having served a little more than three years. He is the author of several religious works.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

For Congress

We are authorized to announce
HON. J. W. HENSON
as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress for the Second Congressional District,
subject to the action of the primary
to be held in August, 1914.

We are authorized to announce
HON. DAVID H. KINCHELOE,
of Hopkins county, as a candidate
for Congress from the Second district,
subject to action of the democratic primary August, 1914.

King Leopold, of Belgium, left a private fortune exceeding $21,000,000.

The Lexington Leader suggests
John W. Barr, Jr., as a proper man for the Republicans to nominate for Governor. All indications now point to Ed McDermott as the Democratic nominee.

Titiana, the Czar's second daughter,
says she intends to marry for love or not at all. She is now 17 years old and Balkan princelings are buzzing about the Russian palace.
Her older sister has already been betrothed to one of them.

August Pajonk, who under the names of "Mrs. Anna Schwartz" and "Miss Eva Kline," masqueraded as a marriageable woman who would bring beauty and wealth to her husband, was sentenced at Chicago to two years in the penitentiary for using the mails to defraud.

An exchange calls attention to the fact that Nick Longworth, who married Alice Roosevelt, is now an uncle
by marriage. It will be remembered that Ethel Roosevelt married a young man named Derby about the time
her father threw his hat into the ring. There is a little Derby.

"Albert" Cashier, an old soldier
at Quincy, Ill., known as a man for 60 years, has been discovered to be a woman. She served through the war, coming to America 73 years ago
as a stowaway from Ireland. Her sex was discovered at the Soldiers
Home and she has been committed to an asylum.

While scores of persons watched him, Frank M. Register, of Savannah, Ga., climbed a tree directly in the rear of the jail, proposed marriage to Miss Zeta Metlock, a young girl confined to the jail, and was accepted.
There are no charges against the girl, who is being held until she can be restored to her parents.

"The Book of the Dead; the Papyrus of Ani," is the oldest book in the world, and we have copies of it in one form or another dating from somewhere about 3,300 B. C. to within a few centuries of our era. The Book of the Dead is the collection of spells or charms which the wealthy Egyptian had buried with him to assure
his welfare in the next world.

It is whispered that Miss Margaret Wilson, the President's eldest daughter,
has been engaged for some time
and that the fact will shortly be announced. Mr. Boyd Fisher, of Princeton, is the happy man. Gossips declare that both Miss Eleanor's wedding and that of her sister, Miss Margaret, will occur within the year, and take place at the White House.

A few minutes after receiving a pardon from Gov. Hays which released him from a 115 year sentence,
Fred Pelton, a negro, was electrocuted
at the Arkansas state prison for the killing of Nelvina Hatton, whom he murdered to secure fifty cents.
There was a question as to the legality of electrocuting Pelton until after he had served his 115 year sentence
and for this reason the pardon
was granted.

THE TWO ACTORS

Story of True Affection That Was Only Revealed on a Deathbed.

Paul Reville and Jean Vernier
were two of the most famous and popular actors in France, but they hated one another most cordially.
They were both connected with the same theater and were both received with a storm of applause every time
they showed themselves on the stage.
Reville's specialty was to play
parts requiring dignity and style,
while Vernier played the villain
whose treachery was always revealed
by the noble Reville.

In their constant struggle to surpass one another they produced art
of such high excellence as had seldom been seen on any stage. Outside the theater the two great artists never exchanged a single word or took the slightest notice of one another, and when people in the Playgoers' club mentioned Reville in Ver-nier's presence he shrugged his shoulders and said, with an expression of contempt, that he did not see that Reville's acting had anything to do with art, while Reville, on his side, always referred to Vernier as "the clown" or "the buffoon." Reville was a widower and Vernier a bachelor. Reville's wife had died shortly after their marriage, after giving birth to a daughter.

Whenever Vernier met Reville
walking with his little daughter he always felt his heart softening toward his rival, and he said to himself: "How happy Reville must be to have somebody to love and care for."

The season was about to open with Eugene Sue's "The Mysteries of Paris," and the principal parts of the schoolmaster and Prince Rudolphi
had been given to Vernier and Reville. Vernier was furious. He hated his part so much more because while Reville as the prince was sure to win the heart of every woman
among the audience, he himself was sure to be hissed by the gallery and pit as the dirty and ragged villain.
At one of the last rehearsals, however, Reville failed to appear. He had caught a heavy cold, which had developed into pneumonia, and he had been taken to a hospital.

Another actor, therefore, took Re-ville's part, and everybody was wondering how Vernier would treat the understudy, who, by the way, was one of his friends and admirers.

The first performance was given to a crowded house, but people could scarcely make themselves believe that it was the famous Vernier who played the villain. His acting was dull, and it seemed as if in places
he did not even know his part. Every moment he stopped and seemed to be unable to remember his words.

As a matter of fact, Vernier was missing his rival, Reville. It appeared to himself that he was a mere shadow and that the substance, Reville, was necessary to fan and stir up his ambition.

Every newspaper in Paris criticized Vernier's acting as far below
his usual standard and simultaneously it was announced that Reville's condition was almost hopeless.

One day a gentleman appeared at the hospital and asked permission to see Reville. It was Vernier. The patient was half-conscious, but as Vernier entered the room he raised his head from the pillow and whispered:

"So it is you! I was waiting for you; I knew you were coming."

Vernier was deeply moved as he sat down on a chair at the bedside
and said: "My poor, dear old friend."

"Give me your hand, Vernier," Reville said almost inaudibly, and the enmity of many years vanished
in this handshake.

"You don't know how happy it makes me to see you," Reville went
on. "You are and always have been more to me than anybody else in the world, with the exception of my child. Do you remember when we played together in 'For His Country?' And now it is all over. How many times haven't I seen you die on the stage! Now you come to see me die here in real earnest. Yes, I know that the end is near, but your coming here to see me has made it easier for me. I know that you will miss me, though we have both tried to hate one another. The only thought that troubles me is that my little girl will be all alone in the world."

Reville's head fell back on the pillow. Vernier could hardly hold back his tears as he said:

"Not alone, Reville! I am still here."

"Will you, really?" the dying man
asked with a smile of happiness.

"How could you doubt such a thing, Reville? I am all alone, and I promise you to be a good father to your daughter. I will do anything in the world to make her happy. I give you my sacred word of honor."

Reville took his hand and his eyes
were full of tears as he said:

"This is the happiest possible ending to the drama of my life."

The next day Reville died.—Pittsburgh Sunday Post.

THE ONION DIET.

A correspondent tries to nag us
for ridiculing the onion as an item of diet. We didn't do it. We only objected to it as a food that inspired good sermons. We simply preferred roast beef and apple pie sermons—
that's all. But as to the onion itself, that is all right. It has a germ that is particularly opposed to colds and all other evils. A raw Bermuda onion will tickle the stomach and make the brain leap for joy. Once upon a time, in a fit of seasickness,
while crossing the tempest-tossed Atlantic, the appetite wholly ruined,
we were persuaded to take a dinner
of ice cream and Bermuda onion. It was a great success. Don't avoid the onion because it is unpopular in society. Abstain from society and take up with the onion, especially this time of the year, when the air is filled with cold germs. The onion will throttle them if taken in large doses, raw and recklessly.—Ohio State Journal.

DEARLY WON VICTORY.

One hundred years ago the Emperor Napoleon won one of his last victories. This was the battle of La Rothiere. A great army of Russians and Prussians under command of Marshal Blucher was collected in the suburbs of the city, while Napoleon, with less than 35,000 men, was supported on one side by the Aube and on the other by the heights of Ajou. The battle waged with great fury, and, in spite of the great disproportion of the forces, Napoleon
held his positions until the evening,
falling back during the night upon Troyes. He had been obliged, however, to abandon a large part of his artillery, which to him was a serious misfortune, considering the small resources now at his disposal, which were being further reduced by every engagement.

FINE SPEECH.

"I interviewed Andrew Carnegie in Brussels," said a newspaper correspondent; "the great little man talked, of course, about peace."

"He told me that peace must be preached gently, affectionately. You can never convert people by enraging them. You can't fight for peace."

"He said a peace advocate of the fiery, virulent, bitter school made a speech one night at a banquet in Pittsburgh, and when he'd finished
an old man shook him by the hand
and said:

"That was a fine speech, sir."

"Thanks. Glad you like it."

"Yes," said the old man. "I liked
it first rate, but, excuse me, sir,
what are you for—peace or war?"

THEN THE COURT WEPT.

It was a very pitiable case of vagrancy, and the magistrate seemed inclined to be lenient.

"Prisoner, you are charged with loitering about the town in a very suspicious manner and with not having any visible means of sustenance. What do you do for a living?"

Prisoner wiped a tear from his eye and turned a haggard face to the magistrate.

"Your worship," said he. "I am engaged in manufacturing smoked

"MARSE HENRY" AND ROYALTY

Waterson's Intimacy With Louis Napoleon Serves to Recall a Twain Incident.

It is related when Mark Twain was presented to the Prince of Wales he was most graciously received by Albert Edward, who took the great humorist aside and held an animated conversation with him, and upon parting observed: "I am glad to have met you again, Mr. Clemens."

Mark, surprised and somewhat abashed, said: "Again, your royal highness?" And with a twinkle in his eye, the prince replied: "Why, don't you remember when you were on top of an omnibus going down and I was leading a procession coming up the Strand?" referring to a forgotten joke in "Innocents Abroad."

I enjoyed that kind of intimacy with Louis Napoleon. In 1865 my breakfast room and his breakfast room were adjacent; his, in the Palace of Tuilleries, mine in a cheap restaurant just opposite in the Rue de Rivoli.

I cannot say that further familiar acquaintance was established, or that I was ever invited to share his cup; but the lady who was keeping company with me then—she is still around, be sure, and still imaginative, bless her dear old bones!—could, she declared, distinctly see the dishes come on and off the imperial table, and once she thought she saw him pick his imperial teeth, and again she got a glimpse of the empress—who is now under the very roof of this hotel—which she makes her home whenever she revisits Paris.

I wonder if, looking across into the gardens of the Tuilleries over the way, she thinks regretfully of the past—Henry Waterson's Letter to the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Senator Was Wondering Just How He Would Employ the Remnant of His Salary Left.

Senator John K. Shields of Tennessee is a homelover and likes his own fireside better than the gilded glories of a gaudy hostelry. On his big plantation out in his state he has a large, colonial mansion surrounded by several hundred acres of fine land on which he pastures cattle, ponies and goats.

But when he came to the capital and sought to get a house suitable for his lares and penates, he found it a difficult task. An energetic real estate agent motored him and his wife from one house to another, each time the price rising skyward for the rent. Now, the senator receives $7,000 a year, and if he pays out much for rent he will have to be pretty economical in his food and clothing.

So he and Mrs. Shields tramped over houses of all kinds for days. At last the agent got them cornered in a lovely mansion big enough to house a regiment and ornate enough to suit the Shah of Persia. He took them over it from top to bottom and at last stood up before them in the handsome library.

"What is the rent?" asked the senator, who was mightily pleased with the place.

"Very reasonable," replied the agent. "Only $6,500 a year."

Senator Shields went over to a window and stood for a time in deep thought.

"Well, sir, what is it that is puzzling you?" inquired the agent.

"Nothing much," remarked Shields, "I was only thinking what I would do with the other five hundred of my salary."

Insatiable.

George A. Birmingham (Canon Hanan), the versatile Irish clergyman, playwright and novelist, was talking to a New York reporter about the American business man.

"I'll tell you a story," he said, "which hits off the American business man well."

"A wife, still young, turned from the window of her sumptuous nineteenth-story apartment and said to her husband:

"George, ten years ago you promised me that when you made a million you'd retire from business, and then we'd travel and enjoy life."

"Here she began to cry."

"You've got your million now!" she sobbed. "Why do you still keep on working?"

"George, as he hurried into his overcoat, growled:

"Ah, that's just like you—never satisfied!"

Smokeless Destroyers.

The United States navy department aims to develop to perfection the smokeless torpedo boat destroyer, just as the navies of all the other nations are trying to do; but a recent test gave results most gratifying to the officials. It was shown during the annual speed tests of the third and fourth groups, including ten vessels.

The Jouett exceeded her contract speed by averaging 32.9 on a two hours' run. The Beale, of the "sea hornets," carried off the smokeless honors, scoring 100 per cent. She ran for four hours with absolutely no smoke showing from her funnels.

300 Letters on Grain of Wheat.

Perhaps the greatest feat of microscopic engraving was accomplished by a Jewish farmer in Alberta, who prepared an address of welcome to the duke of Connaught. The address was inscribed in Hebrew on a grain of wheat and contained no fewer than 300 letters. So fine was the lettering that a microscope was necessary to read the inscription with any ease.

Helpless As A Baby.

Valley Heights, Va.—Mrs. Jennie B. Kirby, in a letter from this place, says: "I was sick in bed for nine months, with womanly troubles. I was so weak and helpless, at times, that I could not raise my head off the pillow. I commenced to take Cardui, and I saw it was helping me, at once. Now I work all day." As a tonic, for weak women, nothing has been found, for fifty years, that would take the place of Cardui. It will surely do you good. Cardui is prepared from vegetable ingredients, and has a specific curative effect on the womanly organs. Try a bottle today. At your druggist's. Advertisement.

HIS PLACE IN PROFESSION

Traveler Not a Physician, Yet He Undoubtedly Had a Certain Connection With the Business.

They were speaking of how easy it is to stack up against a misunderstanding, at a recent dinner in the east, when former Governor Alva Adams of Colorado told of the bad guess made by a messenger on a through express.

In order to break the monotony of the long ride, the senator said, a pair of fellow passengers got into conversation, and nearly every topic on the list was discussed, from politics to the price of eggs.

"What do you think of this microbe business, doctor?" asked one of the men during the conversation. "Do you really think they are as serious a menace as we are led to believe?"

"Pardon me," interposed the other. "You have evidently made a mistake in my calling. I am not a physician."

"Please excuse me," quickly returned the first. "I must have misunderstood you. Didn't you say that you followed the medical profession?"

"Yes," was the smiling response of the second, "but I am an undertaker."

Kept Out of Politics.

In Austria women are forbidden by law to take an active part in politics or to join any political association. Last spring the chamber of deputies decided to cancel the prohibiting clause, and the political committee of the upper house has now endorsed this vote of the deputies, with the explanation that "the part taken by women in associations with political tendencies is well known, and, under the circumstances, can scarcely be prevented." This bill has been sent back to the deputies for further consideration. The women of Austria have been leading an agitation against the rise of prices which they, as housekeepers, feel most acutely. They have been successful in cheapening coal in Vienna and milk in Brunn. The leaders of the movement have been elected to municipal committees, and for the first time a woman has been put on a committee of a town council, viz., that of Housing.

Medicinal Weeds.

"Analysis of our edible weeds shows that they possess powerful medicinal qualities. The dandelion, for example, is replete with tonic salts and is aperient, besides being a natural liver medicine; the milkweed is a perfect tonic for the kidneys and a general cleanser of the system; the common yarrow is a good spring tonic for children; while red clover is one of the richest of all nitrogenous plants, and nitrogen is one of the most strengthening elements."—Farm and Fireside.

Saved!

It was midnight. Lord Algy, attired in full evening dress, was swimming in the basin of a public fountain in one of London's squares. To judge from the stroke he was using, Lord Algy was slightly intoxicated. An English "bobby," hearing the splashing, ran up to the fountain and flashed his pocket lamp upon the swimmer, whereupon Lord Algy exclaimed with fervent gratitude: "Thank God! The lights of Dover!"—Everybody's.

PARADISE FOR THE "HOBO"

Should Emigrate to Africa and Pass His Days as Does the Head Man of Village.

Natives of certain districts in Africa descend into a certain state of coma when there is no active work for them to do, or at least when there is no compulsion to do it. Capt. C. H. Stigand, in his book, "Hunting the Elephant in Africa," states a belief that the native is capable of assuming a state in which the mind is absolutely detached and not working, and when in such a state he is only recalled by a start to his present surroundings: "The life of the head man of a village in Nyasaland, when not engaged in the strenuous pursuit of his official duties, is something like this:

"At sunrise he crawls out of his hut and sits outside. After a short time his wife crawls out and offers him some food. He eats this and then makes his way to a tree, perhaps a hundred yards from the village. Under this he sits in deep abstraction, till about noon, when a child brings him some food and water. After partaking of this he moves a little so as to get the afternoon shade. He then sits in deep meditation till sunset, when he crawls into his hut and goes to sleep.

"Sometimes he is joined by a few other old men under his tree. They hardly ever speak to each other, and if they say anything it is to make some obvious remark as, 'There is a dog,' 'Yes, it is a dog,' 'Oh, Ah,' and a further period of silence."

COMBINED WORK AND SLEEP

Mexican Indian Seemed to Have Solved a Problem Which Has Puzzled His White Brother.

"They call the Mexican Indians lazy," said Alfred Y. Sundstrom, the well-known engineer, "but the Mexican Indian is the only man I've ever seen who works while he sleeps."

"In the interior of Mexico, one balmy January afternoon, I came upon an Indian hut romantically situated beside a stream. A hammock of native grass was swung across a narrow branch of the stream, an Indian slept in the hammock, and a string, tied to his foot, dangled in the water.

"As I approached, the string tightened with a jerk. The Indian awoke. There was a fish of three pounds' weight on the end of it.

"Here you are, Mercedes!" shouted the Indian.

"His brown wife came and removed the fish. She re-baited the hook. Then the Indian, lying back in the hammock again, resumed his sleep-angling act.

"Work while you sleep—I've never seen it done except in Mexico among the supposedly lazy Indians."

HEALTH IN EXTREME COLD.

Sir Ernest Shackleton affirms that during all the months spent in the extreme cold of the antarctic not one of his company suffered from a cold. No sooner, however, did their vessel reach a warmer latitude than every man on board was smitten with catarrh. And "cold snaps" are even more costly in England than in the United States. To builders, plasterers and many carpenters and joiners frost or snow means temporary unemployment. Shipbuilding, too, cannot be carried on at low temperatures, and when the mercury drops to freezing point all the yards are idle. All waterside laborers suffer by severe cold, and fishermen about the coasts affirm that frost drives the fish into deep water. It has been calculated, indeed, that a day's continued frost or snow in that country means a million men idle and a loss of wages which affects the whole trading and laboring community.

INDORSEMENTS.

"I understand," said the Mexican dictator, "that you have amassed a considerable amount of wealth."

"Yes," replied the trembling citizen. "But as a representative of industry and thrift I want to say that I indorse your policies."

"I'm not asking you to indorse my policies. What I want you to do is to get busy and indorse my notes."

THEIR CLASS.

"The managers of these vice plays are infringing on the duties of grand juries."

"In what way?"

"By presenting a nuisance."

TO THE PUBLIC.

In regard to the Fire and Tornado Insurance business. The matter seems to grow more complicated every day. Insurance is something that is absolutely necessary in business, and otherwise. Some insure from necessity, others insure for the gratification of being protected. Some know that it is a hard matter to get Insurance under the present circumstances, others think that matters will adjust themselves in due time, but when, we nor no one else knows. We are not alarmists, nor do we put this before the public for self aggrandizement or profit, we only want to remind the public who wants or may want Insurance that they had better place it now. There are only six companies left in the city, two of which we have the good fortune to represent at present, but we don't know when they will withdraw. If you want Insurance, look to your interest and get it now.

It is better to be safe than sorry.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Is a standard bred and registered trotting horse. He is a nice finished horse, dark mahogany bay, with four white feet, with star and snip, about 15-3 hands high. He has proven himself a fine breeder, as his colts will show. A good many of his colts are natural saddle horses. Come and see him.

Pedigree.

HAPPY HEINE is by Edgewood, 8069, sire of Miss Edith 2:10 1-4; Redwood 2:19, Reuben 2:18, Wild Olive 2:27. Edgewood is by Nutwood 2:18, dam Melrose by George Wilkes. Happy Heine's dam is Hallie E., by Black Alcyone, the dam of Joe Jap 2:17 1-2, 2nd dam Patty by Avant's Ahue, 3rd dam Brown Bess, by Octoroon, 4th dam Amanda, by Hunter's Lexington.

His fee $15, to insure a living colt. Money due when fact is ascertained or mare transferred.

David Crockett, Jr.

BLACK JACK, with white points, is Jack of extra bone and length. Bred by Capt. J. W. Riley, of Newstead; his sire is "Choice Goods." David Crockett, Jr., will make the season at the same place. Terms: $10 to insure a living colt. Money due when fact is ascertained or mare transferred.

This horse and Jack will make the season of 1914 at my farm, seven miles from Hopkinsville, Ky., on Newstead pike.

Not responsible for accidents or escapes.

BARELY ESCAPED WITH LIFE

Government Engineers Have Strenuous Experience While Determining Height of Mount Rainier.

In ascertaining the height of Mount Rainier last year to forever set at rest the question of its exact height the government engineers found the elevation to be 14,408 feet, and while engaged in the operation nearly lost their lives. A terrific blizzard was encountered; in fact, two ascents of the upper portion of the mountain were necessary. The first ascent of the upper 4,550 feet was begun at five o'clock a. m., August 16, and dawn broke with every indication of developing into a beautiful day. On reaching the summit the men encountered a terrific gale, clouds enveloped the mountain, preventing observations, and by noon snow began to fall. A descent was attempted but the party became hopelessly lost in a labyrinth of cyclones, the storm developing into a blizzard. To descend further was impossible; to remain was suicide. Consequently a return to the crater was ordered, and the men reached it after a two hours' climb, utterly exhausted and nearly frozen. Here they sought shelter in one of the steam caves, where during the long night they were thoroughly steamed and half frozen in turn. Strenuous measures were employed by the men to keep from falling to sleep and freezing to death. As it was, their fingers and ears were badly frozen. Finally, with a rising barometer, they succeeded in descending 9,000 feet to a temporary camp, making the descent in three hours. Here they recuperated and prepared for another ascent, which was accomplished on August 20, the start being made at one o'clock in the morning. Good weather was encountered and the mapping of the entire summit was finished by one o'clock.

SOME ODD DEATH REPORTS

New York World Prints Humorous Returns Alleged to Be Taken From the Records.

The chief statistician of Wisconsin, in examining death certificates filed by physicians with the state board of health, has discovered and disclosed some of more than local interest. They reveal such aberrations of sense and science in the diagnosis of disease and the causes of death as to merit consideration from reformers who wish to put nearly every act of human life under medical supervision.

A few instances must serve to illustrate the nature of a multitude. One report is this: "Went to bed feeling well, but woke up dead." Another says: "Do not know the cause of death, but patient fully recovered from last illness." A third reported: "Last illness caused by chronic rheumatism, but was cured before death." Still another: "Deceased never had been fatally sick." And this: "Died suddenly; nothing serious."

Some reports are more absurdities, such as: "Kicked by a horse shod on the left kidney." "Died suddenly at the age of one hundred and three. To this time he bid fair to reach a ripe old age." "Deceased died from blood poison, caused by a broken ankle, which is remarkable, as the automobile struck him between the lamp and the radiator." A mother is reported to have "died in infancy."

The significance of these reports lies in the fact that they emanate from the members of a learned profession, dealing with the practice of that profession.—New York World.

Comparing Their Husbands.

The girls were talking about their husbands.

"I have the dearest husband in the world," said Maude. "If he just wouldn't play cards and drink so much, he'd be perfect."

"My husband doesn't gamble, and he never took a drink in his life," put in Mabel. "He would be a model man, if only could know what he does when he stays away from home at night."

"Ah!" smiled Margaret, "my husband is all that you wish yours could be. He has no bad habits, he comes home on schedule, he denies me nothing, there is no mystery about him. Why, he goes to church every Sunday—at least he used to."

"Used to?" echoed the chorus. "Ah! Why doesn't he go to church now?"

"He found that it interfered with his golf!"

Margaret was voted winner of the prize package.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Motes and Beams.

George Ade, over a cup of afternoon tea with a group of cynical bachelors at the Chicago Athletic club, said:

"Married men declare that their wives can't keep a secret, but these men themselves are just as bad."

A married man buttonholed me in the billiard room an hour ago and told me a frightful scandal.

"Don't let this go any further, George," he ended.

"No, certainly not," said I. "But how did you happen to hear it?"

"Oh, the wife, of course," he answered. "She's just like all women—can't keep a secret."

Varicose Veins Tuberculous.

That varicose veins are a species of tuberculosis is the new theory advanced by Professor Landouzy, dean of the Faculty of Medicine, Paris. Before the Academy of Medicine in this city a few weeks ago he announced that he had found the Koch bacillus in the lesions of varicose veins and the guinea pigs inoculated with it developed tuberculosis.

How to Detect the Alum Baking Powder

"Which are the alum baking powders; how can I avoid them unless they are named?" asks a housekeeper.

Here is one way: take the can of a low-priced powder in your hand and read the ingredient clause upon the back label. The law requires that if the powder contains alum that fact must be there stated. If you find one of the ingredients named alum, or sulphate of aluminum, you have found an alum baking powder.

There is another and a better way. You don't have to know the names of the alum powders. Use Royal Baking Powder only; that assures you a cream of tartar powder, and the purest and most healthful baking powder beyond question.

E. L. BLAKEMORE PASSES AWAY

Suffered For Many Months of Cancer of the Stomach Funeral Yesterday

Mr. Edward L. Blakemore, died at the home of his brother, Mr. Clarence Blakemore, Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock, of cancer of the stomach, from which he had suffered for several months.

He was born in this county in 1850, and reared near Longview. He went to New York with his father and lived there several years, but returned to Kentucky and located on a farm near Montgomery. He moved to Hopkinsville about twenty years ago. He was never married and always made his home with his brother and they owned a great deal of property jointly. He was quiet and reserved in his nature and was kind hearted and generous in his impulses. He leaves a wide circle of friends to lament his death. Funeral services were held at the residence, 1443 South Main street, yesterday afternoon, by Rev. H. D. Smith, of the Christian church. Interment in Riverside Cemetery.

FOUNDED BLACK KINGDOM.

Basutos, now prominent in the South African trouble, are an artificially constituted tribe and their rise to power is one of the minor romances of history. About 1830 a young man named Moshesh, son of a petty chieftain, set out to establish a rulership of his own by gathering together dispersed peoples of various tribes and welding them into a compact political body. Enemies and friends alike came and dwelt peaceably together under his rule and the new community, with Thaba Bongo, an impregnable mountain stronghold, as its seat of government, became one of the most powerful in South Africa. Moshesh, who lived till 1870, was the ablest black ruler of the century.

To Vote On Road Bond Issues In Next Two Months.

Frankfort, Ky., April 1.—Indications are that by the time the State fund created by the 5-cent road tax becomes available a large number of counties will have placed themselves in position to take advantage of State aid by issuing road bonds. Pulaski may be the first with a $300,000 bond issue to be voted on April 24; and Warren will vote on a similar proposition May 23. Simpson, Harlan, Whitley, Bell and Letcher may follow suit.

Forest Notes.

The Canadian government is using Indian fire patrolmen to protect the forests of northern Manitoba.

A Pennsylvania gun company is using the waste pieces of black and Circassian walnut, left from veneer cutting, for gun stocks.

Ghent, Belgium, furnishes practically all of the potted specimens of the symmetrical Araucaria, or Norfolk Island pine, used as an ornamental foliage house plant, in Europe and America. The United States imports at least 250,000 of these plants in 5 or 6-inch pots each year.

Arrangements have been made for the sale of 40 million feet of lumber on the Tongass forest in Alaska. This forest is cut up by bays and inlets, some of which give an opportunity for taking the lumber from the mill to the decks of ocean steamers. The Tongass forest is now self-supporting, its lumber product being used largely in local industries, much going into boxes for canned salmon.

California state inspectors at San Francisco have found a new canker disease on chestnut trees recently imported from Japan. According to Dr. Haven Metcalf, the government's expert on such diseases, this appears to be of the same type as the chestnut blight which is ravaging the forests of the eastern United States, and it is possible that the new disease would be equally as destructive if it became established in this country.

LIQUOR AT HOME ONLY

New Law Cuts Out Bottles at Office, Lodge or Social Club.

The law passed by the last General Assembly regulating the shipment of liquor into dry territory, has generally been regarded as favorable to the liquor interests of the State. A "Joker," it is claimed, has been discovered in the bill, which makes it one of the most drastic restrictions upon what is popularly termed "personal liberty," ever written into a liquor law.

As originally designed, the bill was to give the State brewers and distillers the same right to ship liquor into "dry" portions of the State as is now enjoyed by manufacturers and wholesalers of other States. Heretofore, interstate shipments have been permitted while the State dealer has been barred. The law as written, however, goes much further than its original intent.

Section 4 of the act, which was H. B. 206 reads: In any county, etc., where the sale of liquor is prohibited, "It shall be unlawful for any person to keep, store or POSSESS any such liquors in any room, building or structure, other than the private residence of such person, and which is not used as a place of public resort."

There is a proviso to the section which exempts druggists and common carriers in the act of transporting liquor.

As interpreted by liquor men and lawyers, the law clearly makes it unlawful for a citizen to have any liquor in his possession at any place but his private residence. It means that he cannot keep a bottle at his office, or in a hunting lodge or fishing club. The locker device, by which liquors are kept in the private lockers of members of clubs for their own private and personal refreshment, are entirely unlawful, under Section 4, and the unwary traveler who puts a flask in his pocket or grip, is liable to a fine of at least $50, unless appears on the outside of the package, the name and address of the consignee and consignor, and the statement that the liquors are for the personal and family use of the consignee.

Under this interpretation of the law, a resident in dry territory may receive liquor shipped to him, at his private residence only, and should it be found in his possession at any other place or under any other circumstances, it is declared a violation of the law and subject to fines of $50 for the first offense, and up to $500 for subsequent offenses.

Not only that, but Section 5, which follows the regulations for shipping and labelling and storing, says, "All liquors consigned, shipped, transported in ANY MANNER, received, held or POSSESSED, contrary to the provisions of this act shall be contraband."—Lexington Leader.

Home building should begin now, when money can be gotten for the purpose, by becoming a member of the Hopkinsville Building & Loan Association. Office at First National Bank.

ERRORS IN MANAGING SOILS

Soil Acidity is Responsible in Many Instances for Failure of Seeding of Alfalfa and Clover.

To be careless in the treatment of the soil is as fatal to profitable agriculture as to be indifferent in the care of live stock upon the farm, writes A. R. Whitson, chief of the State Laboratory, established by the last legislature to aid Wisconsin farmers.

We seem content to stop with the knowledge that there is something decidedly wrong with our fields. We know that at one time they yielded much better crops, but we willingly rest with the conclusion that they are "wearing out." Large areas of soils even in this state are acid, and as a consequence will not yield as plentifully as they should. We have to determine by means of a very simple test whether or not our fields are acid, and if so, apply a known and dependable remedy.

When a farmer finds that he cannot get a good stand of thrifty clover on his land, when he sees that certain weeds, such as corn spurry and sheep sorrel, grow readily in his fields, he could, by obtaining a small quantity of blue litmus paper at his drug store, easily test his own soil to find if it is acid. Soil acidity is responsible, in many instances, for the failure of seeding of alfalfa and clover.

Growing in soils well supplied with lime these plants are able to obtain the nitrogen essential for their growth through the work of certain kinds of bacteria or germs, which penetrate the smaller roots, forming lumps or swellings, called nodules. Each of these nodules is a tiny chemical laboratory, in which nitrogen gas is built up into compounds for use by the plant.

MANAGING SHEEP IN WINTER

Where the Weather is Severe Ample Shelter and Food Must Be Furnished to Prevent Loss.

Even at the far south, sheep should be provided with comfortable sheds, and in those portions where snows fall, and the food is destroyed by frost, hay and roots of good quality and in abundance should be furnished. Where the winters are severe, shelter and food must be provided. The sheep should be brought to the pens early in the season. At the very first of the feeding season, the oldest and poorest of the flock should be separated from the others and put upon higher keeping. They should have grain in abundance and be made ready for the butcher as soon as possible. Too many sheep must not be kept in a single pen. If the pens are small, or the food is poor, large flocks will soon become diseased, and the owner will sustain a heavy loss.

A good shed, which is comfortably warm and thoroughly ventilated, should be provided. Sheep can endure cold much better than they can impure air. Still they should not be exposed to the action of wind or rain, and the temperature of the pen should not run extremely low. Small pens, which are quite warm, should be provided for the use of sheep at lambing time, and for sheep which do not own their lambs. The bottom of the shed should be kept constantly dry. Plenty of straw or waste hay should be used for bedding.

An occasional feed of bright corn-meals will be relished by sheep, and do them good. It is not well to keep breeding ewes very fat; on the other hand, it is simply ruinous to allow them to get very thin in flesh. A variety of food will be relished, and will give better results. As in summer, salt should be kept in a box to which sheep can have free access.

NECESSITY FOR PLANT FOOD

Can Farmer Afford to Take Risk in Seed, Kind of Fertilizer Used and Culture Employed?

The crops which you are growing average to mature in 60 to 90 days. The seasons are short. The plants must have their food every hour they are in the soil, and it must be available or they will not grow.

If you think you can trust quick-growing crops on insoluble fertilizers, that is for you to determine, but in my judgment, taking the seasons as they go, wet and dry, hot and cold, you will find you will be the loser, says a writer in an exchange. You have to take a great risk as to the weather. That is the largest factor in raising crops.

Can you afford to take any risk in the seed, the kind of fertilizer used, or the culture employed, factors over which you have control?

Practical Farming.

When a milk farmer begins to pick himself up and grow ambitious, one of the surest signs is better stock, better fed. When a truck farmer begins to really hustle, he commences by using more manure. Did you ever know a successful practical farmer who did both his cows and his

HOUSEHOLD DUTY AND LOOKS

London Woman Advocates the One as Being Certain to Lead to the Other.

A London woman appears to have hit upon a sure way to make household duties palatable. The scheme may not be novel. Perhaps it has been tried many times. The London woman, however, gives it a freshness and a seeming sincerity that are very attractive. In the first place there must be an ostensible object in view. The London woman refers to this object as a systematic course of indoor exercise at home. What does she hope to secure by this systematized exercise? The creation and preservation of beauty. There you have it. What goal could be more alluring? Does the system require a gymnasium, a running track, the usual paraphernalia of indoor exercise? No. Its parallel bar is a broom handle, its dumbbells are brushes, its scaling ladders the front and back stairs. Listen to the London woman. "A good blood circulation is stimulated by bending to scrub a floor or a table, and a good circulation means good health."

Yes, and it means good looks, too. The London woman rounds her arms by dusting, lifting chairs and moving rugs, and brushing down the steps and sweeping floors. She gives herself a finer carriage and a staidier gait by carrying wood and coal to the domestic hearth. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NO RIP SLEEP THERE.

Joe Jefferson once played a one-night engagement as Rip Van Winkle in a small Indiana town. In the hotel at which he stopped was an Irish porter, who, from the serious interest he took in the house, might have been the proprietor. At six o'clock the next morning Mr. Jefferson was awakened by a violent thumping on his door. He had left no "call" order, but his sleep was spoiled, so he arose and soon appeared before the clerk, indignantly demanding to know why he had been called.

Taking the clerk by the coat the Hibernian led him to one side and said in a whisper: "He were shnorin' like a horse, sorr, and O'd heerd the b'ys say as how he were wunst ather shlapin' for twenty years, so O! sez to meself: 'Moike, it's comin' on to him ag'n an' it's your duty to git him right out o' yer house.'" — Ladies' Home Journal.

NOT OVER-SUPPLIED.

When Senator Kern was running for governor of Indiana he stopped one noon at a little hotel in Brown county for some food.

"Hurry up, now," Kern said to the proprietor. "I have only fifteen minutes before my train comes."

"No hurry, governor," the hotel keeper replied. "You can eat all there is in this hotel in five minutes." — Saturday Evening Post.

MAKE ALCOHOL OF POTATOES

One Reason Industry Has Not Advanced in United States is Because of High Price of Tubers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

That the manufacture of alcohol from potatoes has not yet become established in the United States is due to various reasons. The price of potatoes marketable for other purposes has been too high, and no sufficient supply of culls and surplus potatoes has been available. The average price for distilling potatoes in Germany for the five years 1906-1910 was 18.3 cents per bushel. It is probable that the farmers there would be less disposed to grow the crop if it were not for its indirect benefits, including the feeding value of the mast left after the distillation of the alcohol, according to the department of agriculture.

The potato-drying industry in Germany is the last development in the utilization of surplus potatoes, and came about only through the absolute necessity of finding an outlet for the surplus production that could not be consumed by the starch and alcohol factories. The rapid increase in the number of potato-drying factories in Germany shows great promise for this young industry, and should merit the careful consideration of our people as to whether the time has not already arrived for the introduction of this method into the United States, at least on an experimental basis. The problems to be met relate mainly to the present cost of the labor in picking up and delivering to the factory the potatoes not marketable for table purposes. In many cases, however, it is necessary to remove these culls from the field to prevent the spread of potato diseases, and it would seem that the drier would pay for the labor involved. The dried product is adapted for many purposes. Not only cattle but horses have been fed the dried potatoes as a substitute for grain with perfect satisfaction.

BROOD MARES FOR FARM USE

Percheron or Shire Will Generally Prove the Most Satisfactory—Profit Obtained in Colts.

In selecting a brood mare for farm purposes, the Percheron or Shire will generally prove the most satisfactory. They need not be too large because a heavy footed clumsy beast is to be avoided always.

A mare that weighs fourteen or fifteen hundred pounds is big enough for any use.

She should have a clean, bony head, a prominent, bright, intelligent eye, good legs and large hoofs.

Her barrel should be roomy but symmetrical with broad hind quarters.

Brood Mare and Colt.

Avoid a mare with any suggestion of "cat hams."

A good disposition is essential, but does not mean that a brood mare must be stupid or a bungler in harness.

Better pay $300 for a first class brood mare than $100. The difference will be made up in the first two colts, provided the right kind of a sire is used.

With a brood mare of this description a farmer can every year raise a colt that will sell from $150 to $300 and get good service in farm work out of her besides.

GOOD PASTURES FOR SWINE

Clover is Much Cheaper for Pigs Than Grain and It Pays to Give Animals All They Will Eat.

(By W. F. PURDY.)

A trip through the country will reveal the fact that a good many of the pig pastures on the farms are not pastures in fact, but simply small runs.

This means that the pigs get a little grass or clover while it is at its best early in the spring and then go without the rest of the season.

Now, if the pigs could be given a good big pasture where they would have more range and all the clover they would eat and some to spare the profit from them would be more.

Clover is very much cheaper feed for pigs than grain and it pays to give them all of it they will eat. Fattening hogs will make the same gain on 25 per cent. less grain where they have access to good clover pasture.

Poultry Roup.

The most certain way of identifying poultry roup is a characteristic sickening odor.

Every farm should have a hotbed for early vegetables.

Wood's Laxative Mineral Water.

Well Recently Bored 137 Feet Deep, Situated One Mile West of Hopkinsville.

ANALYSIS OF WATER.

By Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, Ky.: One gallon contains 323.6 grains of solid matter (5.53 grams per liter,) composed mainly of sodium chloride (common salt,) sodium sulphate (Glauber's salt,) with small amount of calcium sulphur, calcium carbonate, magnesium carbonate and sodium sulphide. Hydrogen sulphide free and combined is present to the extent of 5.0 grains per gallon. There are traces of sodium iodide and sodium bromide, iron, silica, potassium and lithium salts. There is a salt-sulphur water and would doubtless have a laxative effect in addition to the other properties of a sulphur water.

JOKE CLEARLY ON LANDLORD

Tenant's Somewhat Mean Way of Getting His Contract for New York
Flat Broken.

One owner of a big apartment house
in New York learned a new trick to his sorrow. He did not mind the money loss as much as the neat way
he "fell for it" led by the artful tenant.

It seems a man who had signed a year's lease on an apartment in this place bought a house at the beginning of the summer and wanted to move into it, but knew that the landlord could hold him to his contract if the flat was rented. So he said nothing, but went to work effectively.

One Sunday morning about five, just when every one was enjoying his best nap, a huge machine for canned music began operations in this wicked man's flat. Coo songs, ragtime, Irish rows, everything which would set the nerves
on edge ground out in an ear-splitting noise that vibrated through the building. Tenants turned over, swore, got up and went to the telephone to call the landlord. Hot and heavy came in the complaints and the poor man rushed down to the apartment.

Dashing up to the room from which came the avalanche of sound, he was admitted.

"What in the name of the sacred codfish do you mean by kicking up all this racket on Sunday morning and rousing every one from sleep?" he demanded of the tenant of the offending
flat.

"Well," replied the flat man with a provoking smile, "I guess it is my flat and the law says I can do as I wish in my own house."

"This is not your house," roared the landlord, "and I wish you to clear out
at once."

"Certainly," replied the flat man, "I will move tomorrow. You are breaking the contract yourself. Many thanks
—I have just bought a home in the suburbs."

REALLY USED COTTON BALES

Popular Idea Concerning Battle of New Orleans Has Been Found to Be Correct.

Interest in the lumbering cotton-bale theory of the battle of New Orleans was aroused by the finding of a water-color picture map of the original battle plan in an abandoned trunk in the cellar of the St. Charles hotel.
Little is known about the drawing or the other contents of the trunk which has remained unnoticed for years in a dark corner.

Five veterans of the battle have added their signatures to the remarkable map to attest the fact that it is a true representation of the battle plan as made under the direction of Andrew Jackson by his military engineer, H. Lacotte. It shows a line of cotton bales which a marginal note says was 1,000 feet long with a prolongment extending 600 feet into the woods. Some historians deny the story about the use of cotton bales.

The five veterans who say they fought behind cotton bales were Joseph St. Cyr, Jean Lamothe, P. M.
Laplace, Charles Raymond and Jean Gervais. Pen pictures of these men appear in the footnotes.

The finding of the picture is timely, says the New Orleans Item, as it will be of service for the staging of the battle, which is to be one of the leading features of the Exposition of Big Ideas.

Styles and Men.

This is—well, let's say amusing—
this dictate of fashion that men must wear in 1914 clinging garments—isn't it? Because some of us must either adopt pads or endure the mockery of the masses while parading in the guise of human scarecrows or Punch
and Judy shows—if clinging duds do master masculinity. And some of us will lose one large subject of conversation and laughter, for we won't any longer be able to criticize the garments of our sisters, wives and affi-nities. If any one consideration can do more than another to prevent the general adoption of tight styles for men
this loss of critical opportunity is likely to be the thing, isn't it? It never will do to give ladies an opportunity to turn the batteries of laughter on the masculine half of humanity, will it?
Of course a compromise may be arranged—but compromises seldom wear
well, do they?—Detroit Free Press.

Tax on Windows.

If the tax on doors and windows appears in France with the new fiscal reform, the archaeologists, say the Paris papers, will not regret it, for it was more than an artistic misdeed.
When it was created more than a century ago the taxpayers, especially in the provinces, sought to diminish the imposed tax. Little rural windows were made out of the "grandes bourgeoises," and there was much talk of the detriment to art and health thereby. Today in replastering the walls of ancient edifices there are often discovered magnificent windows often of the renaissance covered in whole or in part; the mullions have been broken and the damage is irreparable. This was one incident in the window tax
that the legislators of the revolutionary period certainly did not foresee.—

Promoters.

Thomas W. Lawson, at a dinner in Boston, said of promoters:

"Virtue is its own reward, but generosity is the thing to yield big profits. Why, hundreds of men become multi-millionaires just by generously looking up good things for other people to invest in, while keeping religiously out of them themselves."

TOYS THAT GIVE PLEASURE

Must Appeal to the Child's Imagination if It Is to Afford Him Satisfaction.

When you have put into a child's hand an extremely elaborate model
it cannot and does not satisfy his imagination. He will play for a whole day with a train made of chairs, because imagination enters into the game; the armchair is an engine, the sofa is a sleeping car,
another armchair is the luggage van.

But if you give him a perfect thing his imagination is left out in the cold; there is no part for it to take in the game except a destructive part; in short, there is nothing to be done with the mechanical model except to break it open and see how it works. Indeed, more summary methods are quite naturally attractive. I have seen a little boy of four years old, to whom an elaborate working model of a motor car had been presented, after watching it work for a few minutes, take it up in his hand and hurl it to the ground with a smile of satisfaction. It was the only thing he could think of doing with it.

That is why the hoop or the train
of chairs or the rough and grotesque toy train will always give more real pleasure than the most elaborate machinery that can be conceived; that is why the rag doll or the woolly lamb will always lie nearer the heart's affections than the most wonderfully equipped and elaborately
clothed French poupee. — Filsen Young.

Mr. Wise—No; he heard that the AFRICAN CAVE DWELLERS.

S. F. E. Johnson, who has been exploring and sketching in Tunisia
for the Geographic Magazine, looked over the troglodytes, or cave dwellers, of the Atlas mountains, and noted that they were abandoning their altitudinous burrows because of the cold and, perhaps, because of their increasing inability to stand exposure.

They are mostly undersized, animal-like creatures, and many of them are deformed through intermarriage. They had migrated in numbers to the valleys, but could not accustom themselves to sleeping indoors. Their burrowing tendency clung to them, and they made holes
when they could not find them.

Johnson said the impression that there were only about 500 troglodytes in Tunisia had been dispelled.
He estimated that there were at least 5,000 of them. Their intelligence was limited, and they had a strong dislike for music in any form
—vocal, instrumental or bass drum.

A CENTURY AGO

The Right Rev. William Vaughan,
Roman Catholic bishop of Plymouth and for many years one of the best-known Catholic priests in Europe,
was born one hundred years ago in London. He was an uncle of the family of Cardinal Vaughan. While he never reached the height which his illustrious nephew attained, the bishop, in his sixty-four years of work as a priest, won for himself
many honors, and could count many of the highest personages of Europe among his friends. He was ordained a priest in 1838 and became bishop of Plymouth in 1855. He lived to be almost ninety years of age, his death occurring in 1902.

ONE OF HIS RESOLUTIONS.

"I'd like to have you tell me honestly your opinion of my husband,"
she said.

"You'll have to excuse me, madam," he replied; "I swore off that kind of language the first of the year."

A WORD ABOUT SILOS

A long experience with building materials leads us to the conclusion that concrete is not nearly so durable as is usually claimed for it.

The ingredients that enter into concrete are of course everlasting, but in a wall or a pavement concrete will only last as long as these ingredients will stick together, and this is not nearly long enough to justify the difference in cost between that and the

WOOD SILO.

Why go to the extra expense to build concrete silos when a well constructed WOOD SILO will last fifteen or twenty years?

Our Silos are giving perfect satisfaction, and we guarantee to please you both in quality and price.

They will come cheaper now than late in the season when other building is far more active than in the early Spring. We shall appreciate the opportunity of naming you a price, and you can save your money by buying a WOOD SILO.
